News from your President and Secretary

Dear Members,

We are back after a very enjoyable holiday up north at Coral Bay, where we developed a healthy tan while swimming, lazing on the beach, snorkelling and some fishing on the Ningaloo Reef.

Dutch Liquor:

A new supply has just arrived from the Netherlands and the shipment contained a couple of new lines. We have obtained a few bottles of “Red Currant Bessen Jenever” and “Millwood” a Cream Liqueur, alleged to taste better than Baileys.

Freight prices have increased and there could be a marginal increase in the price per bottle. We still have to work that one out at the time of going to print.

Annual General Meeting:

When you receive this magazine our AGM would have been held and a full report will be published in the November issue.

But I can inform you that despite three resignations, we have received enough nominations to have a full working Committee. And what is very encouraging, we have attracted a couple of younger Committee members.

Functions:

We have made a couple of important adjustments to planned functions.

The “End of the Month Drinks” will be extended by one hour, the new times will be 5.00 pm—8.00 pm. This will give those that come direct from their work some extra time to socialise.

“Friday Lunches” in the Clubhouse Lounge will be discontinued due to lack of response from our members. Our volunteers are too valuable to have them travel up to 40 KM and offer up to 5 hours of their time for very little business. But I would like to thank those that did support us from the bottom of my heart. At least we gave it a go and I will be the first to say it did not work out. But we will keep trying new ideas.

Of course goods from the shop, including Dutch Liquor, can still be purchased on Fridays from 9.30am-1.00 pm. EFTPOS is available for these purchases. And we can even make a cup of Coffee for you, if required.

Melbourne Cup Lunch, a new Initiative:

This year for the first time we will hold a “Melbourne Cup Lunch.” Come and watch the race on our large screen and enjoy a sumptuous 3-course Lunch.

Everyone will be seated at round tables of eight people and we will provide full table service.

There will be a competition for the best or funniest Hat.

And of course we will run a Sweepstake.

As the number of seats are limited, it is important that you book early and for catering purposes pre-pay for your tickets. For details see page 11.

Regular Functions:

Other regular events coming up during October and November and not to be missed are:

“Leiden’s Ontzet Lunch”.

This will be held on 10 October. The Hollandia Choir will not be there as it has cancelled all upcoming performances due to the unavailability of Ann Padley.

Prinsen Ball:

This event will be held on Sunday afternoon the 7th of November starting at 1.00 pm.

Doors will be open at noon, so why not come early and enjoy a light lunch such as a “Broodje Kroket” or a “Broodje Rookworst” before the fun starts.

The St Nicholas Brunch:

Meet St Nicholas on Sunday the 28th of November for a quiet Brunch without lots of children.

Pieter Leeftang,
your President

Dear Readers,

Many of you will have read that the Committee introduced the Friday Morning Café, which created the opportunity for those people visiting the shop, to have a coffee and apple cake or to enjoy a “Broodje Kroket” for lunch.

To make it as attractive as possible for you, the visitor and to offer you the best quality coffee possible, I brought in my drip filter coffee maker. That way we would have freshly brewed coffee for you.

However, after 2 weeks of bringing it in, we lost the coffee maker. As I know that we have many volunteers working in the kitchen I assume (and I sincerely hope) that one of you has misplaced my coffee machine. Currently I only have the brown plastic filter that comes with the machine. Could you please let me know where I can find my coffee maker?

As I will be away in the UK to look after my sick mother-in-law, you can contact Pieter Leeftang.

Thank you very much.

Secretary

GET WELL SOON:

To those members who are not feeling too well, who are ill, injured or who are battling a severe illness, the Neerlandia Committee wish you all the very best and above all, a full and speedy recovery.

Laughter is still the best medicine

Senior health care solution:

So you're a sick senior citizen and the government says there is no nursing home available for you - what do you do?

Our policy plan is to give anyone 65 years or older a gun and 4 bullets. This allows you to try to shoot 4 Members of Parliament – not necessarily dead! Of course, this means you will be sent to prison where you will get 3 meals a day, a roof over your head, central heating and all the health care you need! Need glasses, great. New hip, knees, kidney, lungs, heart? All covered. (And your kids can come and visit you probably more often than they do now).

And who will be paying for all of this?

The same government that just told you that they cannot afford for you to go into a nursing home. Plus, because you are a prisoner, you don't have to pay any income taxes anymore.

IS THIS A GREAT COUNTRY OR WHAT?

Road Hog:

Sitting on the side of the highway waiting to catch speeding drivers, a Police Officer sees a car pattering along at 22 KPH. He says to himself: "this driver is just as dangerous as a speedster!"

So he turns on his lights and pulls the driver over.

Approaching the car, he notices that there are five old ladies - two in the front seats and three in the back - wide eyed and white as ghosts.

The driver, obviously confused, says to him:

"Officer, I don't understand, I was doing exactly the speed limit! What seems to be the problem?"

"Ma'am," the officer replies, "you weren't speeding, but you should know that driving slower than the speed limit can also be a danger to other drivers."

"Slower than the speed limit? No sir, I was doing the speed limit exactly. Twenty-two kilometres an hour!" the old woman says a bit proudly.

The Police officer, trying to contain a chuckle explains to her that "22" was the highway number, not the speed limit. A bit embarrassed, the woman grinned and thanked the officer for pointing out her error.

"But before I let you go, Ma'am, I have to ask.. Is everyone in this car OK? These women seem awfully shaken and they haven't made a peep this whole time," the officer asks.

"Oh, they'll be all right in a minute officer. We just got off Highway 189."

PROMISE AFTER DEATH ...

A couple made a deal that whoever died first would come back and inform the other of the afterlife. Their biggest fear was that there was no after life at all.

After a long life together, the husband was the first to die. True to his word, he made the first contact:

"Marion... Marion"

"Is that you, Bob?"

"Yes, I've come back like we agreed."

"That's wonderful! What's it like?"

"Well, I get up in the morning, I have sex. I have breakfast and then it's off to the golf course.

I have sex again, bathe in the warm sun and then have sex a couple of more times. Then I have lunch (you'd be proud - lots of greens). Another romp around the golf course, then pretty much have sex the rest of the afternoon. After supper, it's back to golf course again.

Then it's more sex until late at night. I catch some much needed sleep and then the next day it starts all over again"

"Oh, Bob are you in Heaven?"

"No.....I'm a rabbit in Arizona...."

He is my Brother:

Two young boys walked into a pharmacy one day, picked out a box of tampons and proceeded to the checkout counter.

The man at the counter asked the older boy: "Son, how old are you?"

"Eight," the boy replied.

The man continued: "Do you know what these are used for?"

The boy replied: "not exactly, but they aren't for me, they're for him. He's my brother. He's four. We saw on TV that if you use these, you would be able to swim and ride a bike. Right now, he can't do either."

End of the month Drinks in July and August

End of Month Drinks July & August 2010

Due to our write-up on the World Cup Finals screened at Neerlandia in the early hours of Monday morning 12 July, we owe you the progress report of the July and August End of Month drinks. With pride and satisfaction we can confirm that the End of Month drinks are now a well-established event on the social calendar of your Club.

More people visit, familiar faces return and bring friends.

It is also interesting to see how the hosting committee members are becoming more relaxed about welcoming every one, thereby creating time and opportunity to talk and to listen to what the expectations are.

Consequently we receive attractive suggestions of what the people want and what the people expect their Club to be. And therein lays the problem or the solution: you have to talk to your Committee Members. Not so much talking about what you don't like but talk to us about what you do like. How can we make it attractive for you to visit the Club; what functions would you like to see organized; either for you to decide to become a member or, if you are already a member, for you to decide to get more involved with the Club? The End of Month Drinks are an excellent opportunity to see your Committee members and to have a drink and a talk with us.

Yaolan Liem with sons Liam & Jack

One of the suggestions that came up during the August End of Month drinks was that the opening time, 5 – 7PM, is not really practical for those people who are at work. We listened and we talked about it. Consequently, for the rest of the year, the lounge will be open from 5.00 – 8.00PM for End of Month drinks. As of January we'll open at 5PM with a closure time depending on the amount of visitors present.

The Committee is excited and energized by the success of the End of Month Drinks. We are at the dawn of a new morning for Neerlandia. If you want to be a part of this, visit us on the last Friday of each month (except December) and get to know the member of Dutch Society Neerlandia. Let's propose a toast on the health and longevity of the Dutch Community in W.A.

Father's Day Brunch

Fathers Day Brunch:

This was held on Sunday the 5th of September at the Neerlandia Clubhouse.

Although 67 people had booked, one of the families suffered a tragedy the day before and had to cancel. We fully agreed with their decision and our commiserations go to them.

Nevertheless we still had well over 50 people, who thoroughly enjoyed themselves, going by the comments and gratitude expressed.

Henk Piller and family said they thoroughly enjoyed their outing at the club and they appreciated the good atmosphere and service.

On arrival the guests were greeted with a brewed cup of Coffee and a piece of home-made "Appeltaart". For those that still felt a bit peckish, self-service from a table full of Dutch Breakfast Goodies were for the taking and there was also unlimited Coffee and Orange Juice.

The main meal, a generous Dutch "Uitsmijter" was served at about 11.00 am

The Neerlandia President welcomed everyone and wished all the Fathers a Happy Father's Day and in particular the oldest Dad present, Cor van Pelt, who is a young 97 years old.

Herry van der Sluys with daughter Attie and his 6 month old great-grandchild Sienna.

The oldest father present was Cor van Pelt, 97 years young, pictured with his son Theo.

Our kitchen volunteers as usual excelled themselves and received a generous applause, when they were introduced to our guests by our President.

All the Dads received a glass of Port and all too soon it was time for everyone to depart and only the cleaning up was left to be done.

All in all another very successful day.

Pieter Leeftang

Murray and Lien Koedijk celebrated Father's Day at Neerlandia with their family.

De Jeugd van Vroeger (DJVV):

Het gaat redelijk goed met de DJVV.

Maar we hebben wel een moeilijke tijd gehad in verband met onze maaltijden. De meeste van onze keuken volunteers waren met vakantie en het was niet gemakkelijk om plaatsvervangers te vinden.

Bovendien waren er ook enige leden en committee leden met vakantie.

We hebben één van onze oudste en eerste leden verloren. Marie Linden is op 23 Juli overleden. Zij was een trouw lid en heeft een lange tijd in de Committee gediend. Rust zacht, lieve Marie.

Ook is Bill Langedijk eind Augustus overleden.

Ouderdom wacht op niemand en wij hebben verscheidene leden die over de 90 jaar zijn.

Ook een paar leden zijn in een Home terecht gekomen en kunnen niet meer naar de club komen.

Corrie Teeuw, die al over de 100 jaar oud is, komt zo nu en dan op bezoek en zij geniet ervan om iedereen te zien. Dat is het weer, tot de volgende keer.

An Hotz

Daddy, how was I born?

In the not to distant future, a little boy will go to his father and ask: 'Daddy, how was I born?'

The father answers: 'Well, son, I guess one day you will need to find out anyway!

Your mother and I first got together after I did a long MSM search and finally found her in a chat room on RSVP. I then set up a date with her via e-mail and we met at a cyber-cafe. As we both fell in love instantly we included each other in our Favourites. She thought I was a real Hotmail and I thought she was a bit of a Firefox. After a few drinks both of us were off our Facebook, so we sneaked into a secluded room and Googled each other for some time.

I didn't stay Microsoft for long, especially when your mother agreed to a download from my hard drive into what was to become Myspace. That really made her Twitter! We were young and in love, so we didn't think about Security, only Tools. After she had uploaded, we discovered that neither of us had used firewall protection! It was too late to hit the Delete or Discard button and as she had already done a Save All, nine months later a little Pop-Up appeared that said:

The historic city of Veere (1)

CITY of VEERE

The small city of Veere (population of 1520 as of 2001) is located on the Veerse Meer on the island of Walcheren in Zeeland. The name means "ferry" after Wolfert Van Borssele established one here in 1281. Veere received city rights in 1355. The total area of the borough of Veere is 13,496 hectares, with a coastline of 34 kilometres and a population of about 22,000.

Flag & Coat of Arms

It has a small picturesque harbour which once gave direct access to the North Sea, with sheltered waterways for vessels to proceed north-east to Dordrecht (near Rotterdam) on the River Maas or south-east to Antwerp on the River Schelde.

HISTORY

The "Admiraliteit van Veere" (Admiralty of Veere) was set up as a result of the Ordinance on the Admiralty of 8 January 1488 in an attempt to create a central naval administration in the Burgundian Netherlands. To this was subordinated the Vice-Admiralty of Flanders in Dunkirk. In 1560 under admiral Philip de Montmorency, Count of Hoorn, this admiralty was relocated near Ghent and in 1561 the Habsburg naval forces were also moved to Veere.

Between 1541 and 1799, Veere was the staple port for the Kingdom of Scotland. Flemish architects Antonis Keldermans and Evert Spoorwater designed the Grote Kerk, the fortifications, the Cistern and the town hall. During this period of prosperity, the cultural centre was located at Sandenburgh castle, the residence of the noble Van Borsele and Van Bourgondië families. Court painter Jan Gossaert van Mabuse worked here.

The poet Adrianus Valerius lived and worked in the city from 1591. In the 17th and 18th centuries, Veere was a prosperous trading city. There were about 750 houses within the city walls then, compared to about 300 now. As a result of the damming of the Veerse Gat inlet in 1961, the fishing fleet of Veere moved to a new home port at Colijnsplaat on Noord-Beveland. Today, the main business of the town is tourism.

Scotland's historical links

Wijnendaele Castle, where the Duke of Burgundy resided.

In the 12th century, wool production in Scotland and England began to outstrip domestic demand, so the Cistercian monks of Melrose exported Scottish wool duty-free to Flanders. This right was formalised in 1407 by a decree of the Duke of Burgundy, John the Fearless, which created the office of Conservator of Scottish Privileges in the Low Countries. Huge amounts of wool were exported for manufacture into cloth in the Low Countries, France and German towns on the North and the Baltic Seas.

Founded as a fishing port in 1296, Veere soon made contact with Scottish ports and exchanged all kinds of goods. At this time, Scottish wool was exported to Bruges, but when the River Zwin silted up the ports of entry, Damme and Sluis, could no longer be navigated. Despite all the efforts of Bruges to retain the Scottish Wool Staple the Conservator of Scottish Privileges, Sir Alexander Napier, eventually transferred his Office and Staple Court to Middelburg in 1518. Another factor in this move was the growing pressure from Spain and France to assert the Roman Catholic rite in Flanders. When this pressure began to be felt in Middelburg, the Staple was again moved in 1541 to Veere, where the local people sympathised with the Calvinist views of the Scottish trading community.

Staple Contract

The Staple Contract granted Veere a monopoly on importing, storing and trading Scottish goods in the Netherlands.

The Veere-Scotland ties had been strengthened by the marriage in 1444 between Wolfert VI of Borssele, Lord of Veere, and Mary Stuart, the daughter of the Scottish king James I and Joan Beaufort. Mary died in 1465 and was buried in the Grote Kerk.

The links between the Stuarts and the Netherlands continued with the marriage of Prince William of Orange (Marquis of Veere) to the daughter of James VI.

The Scottish traders (who came mainly from Edinburgh, Perth, Culross, St. Andrews, Dundee and Aberdeen received several privileges in the town they called Campvere. The Scots' ships were given preferential treatment and they had their own taxation and legal system. The 'Admiral's Court' dealt with international maritime law, such as in 1528 when the city of Edinburgh appealed to the Lord of Veere for justice in the case of a dispossessed Scottish skipper. The 'Court of the Lord Conservator' dispensed justice independently in both civil and criminal cases to all who lived under the Staple Contract. In an historical account of the Staple, the Deputy Conservator, James Stuart, wrote in 1749 that 'the Scots' Privileges in the Netherlands are the most honourable that were ever granted to any Nation in that, or perhaps any other Country.'

Scottish Kirk on foreign soil

In 1612 the Scottish community was given the right to establish a chapel with a graveyard and to appoint ministers and elders. This was the first Scottish Kirk established on foreign soil and linked directly with the General Assembly in Edinburgh. Its first minister was Alexander MacDuff, who took up his charge in 1614. Four engraved silver communion cups, made by a local silversmith, were in use from 1620 to 1798. In 1875 they were offered for sale as 'old silver' and bought by a wealthy landowner, who presented them to Manchester Cathedral in 1893, where they remain. Veere thus became in the 15th and 16th centuries the main port for Scottish commerce with Flanders, Holland and Brabant. Wool was the major import, next to coal, hides, whisky, flax, grain and fish. Exported to Scotland were cloth, tiles, leather, brassware, wines and spirits. There is a reference to a 'very good, tame lion', which was sent to the Scottish king as a gift from the people of Veere!

Manchester Cathedral

End of the trade

The Napoleonic period saw the end of the wool trade and the Scottish Privileges. The Scottish Staple was based on privileges which did not accord with the principles of égalité espoused by the new French influenced Batavian Republic. With the coming of free trade, Veere's prosperity and wealth had already declined. In 1798 the Scottish community in Veere had dwindled to 15 souls; the Kirk was closed and the minister, Rev. James Likly of Aberdeen, was expelled. The elders wrote to the Presbytery in Edinburgh: 'How much we now regret the loss of public worship in our own language, the dispersion of our congregation and the loss of our Pastor, so justly esteemed and respected by us'.

The 1st of December 1799 saw the cancellation of the Scottish Staple Contract. All persons under the former jurisdiction of the Scottish Court had to leave the Republic so the Scots quit Veere and returned to their own country. The Scottish church was demolished in 1837 and remains of it could be seen until 1950. It is hoped that the foundations will be incorporated into an extension of the Dutch Reformed Church, to be built in about a year's time.

1 February 1953 Flood

The great North Sea tidal surge of 1953 overran the sea-defences of Walcheren, which lies mostly below sea-level, and flooded Veere to a depth of several meters. (The south-west coastline of the Netherlands was then very different from what it had been in the 16th. century, partly because channels between the islands have silted-up over the centuries but mainly because of the many dams which reclaimed large areas of land from the sea). The government's response was the "Delta Plan", aimed to prevent any future flooding. Massive sea-walls were built around Walcheren and linked by new roads and bridges northwards along the coast as far north as Rotterdam. Some of these sea-walls were severely tested by floods in 1995 and many dikes had to be raised and strengthened as far inland as Nijmegen, near the border with Germany. As part of this plan a sea-wall was built in 1961 to seal off the Veerse gat inlet which had for centuries given Scottish seamen access to Veere and it ceased to be a seaport. (The sandbank which was a hazard at the harbour mouth is still marked on the chart by its old name: The Scotsman). Veere has now become a holiday resort for visitors, who come to these inland waters from many parts of Europe. It is, however, still linked to the sea by canal through Middelburg to Flushing ('Vlissingen') and the mouth of the River Schelde in the west. Non-tidal waterways to the north also enable barge traffic and pleasure-craft to navigate through the Netherlands and enter the Rivers Maas and Rhine, with a new canal link with the Danube and the Black Sea.

Veere Today

A combination of a visibly great past, modern hospitality and the proximity of the ever-fascinating sea: this is the borough of Veere.

It begins as soon as you access the roads leading to Zeeland: the holiday feeling. There is a touch of salt in the air, the views are more panoramic and the landscape exudes a certain air of tranquillity. Zeeland is an outstanding holiday province. Nowhere else in the Netherlands do you find such a perfect combination of sea, beach, dunes, forests, polders, historic villages and cities, and water, lots and lots of water.

Whenever you mention the borough of Veere you immediately think of the beach. Beautiful golden sand dunes, the brilliant blue sea flecked with white foam, wind, sun, windbreaks, parasols and sun beds. The borough is a wonderful mixture of history, natural beauty, culture, peace and amusement. Furthermore, it is a mixture of young and old, casual and design, sophistication and the everyday. The borough of Veere has 13 centres each with their own special charm. The heart of the region is agricultural while the coastal areas comprise mainly forests, dunes and beaches. It has a population of 22,000 and each year around 4 million tourists stay over.

Wellness

The Market

The qualities of the borough of Veere attract a large number of visitors each year. They come here to enjoy themselves, to relax and to simply get away from their everyday worries. Our inhabitants anticipate this by providing top quality accommodation at a wide range of camp sites, hotels and recreational houses. As well as saunas, wellness centres and small, specialist shops. The borough of Veere also provides innumerable possibilities for visitors who enjoy playing sport and good food. Indeed, there are many leisure activities to choose from. The emphasis here is on wellness, durability and a good quality life. It is so easy to enjoy yourself in the borough of Veere; it offers something for everyone and whatever your personal choice may be, you may be sure it is good.

Veere

Veere is a beautiful city with a glorious past. It is one of the most surprising locations in Zeeland. On the Wharf, the marina and the Market you will see magnificent merchants' houses with step gables, spout gables, cornice facades and bell or Dutch gables.

Domburg

Sun worshippers from far and wide come to the lively and fashionable seaside resort of Domburg. It has a wide range of quality shops, museums, hotels, a swimming pool and not to forget, the world famous 'Light of Zeeland' which attracted famous painters like Mondriaan and Toorop. Domburg has been a stylish seaside resort for 170 years and the Badpaviljoen building bears testimony to this.

Furthermore, we have annual events such as the Painters' Week, the Coastal Marathon, Jazz by the Sea and a variety of art routes.

Storm Surge Barrier in the Eastern Scheldt river

Climate change and rising sea levels, sand supplementation and the construction of dams and nature reserves are constantly changing our coastline.

Following the 1953 floods the Dutch government decided to focus on making our delta permanently safe.

Neeltje Jans, a dynamic dune area in the making with a unique recreational function, forms the link between the sections of the storm surge barrier at the mouth of the Eastern Scheldt. This Storm Surge Barrier is one of the most impressive technical feats in the field of hydraulic engineering in the world. The barrier protects the beautiful natural environment of the Eastern Scheldt. This magnificent route is accessible to both motorists and cyclists.

Holland's Glory in the Golden Age

Holland's Glory in the Golden Age.

It happened in the period of protracted peace negotiations between the Lower Countries and Spain, that Stadhouder Prins Frederik Hendrik died on the 14th of March 1647. Frederik's young son Willem II was acknowledged as his successor and could finally ratify a peace agreement on the 30th of January 1648 known in history as 'De Vrede van Munster'.

Earlier on, in the year 1631 the 'Staten Generaal' of the United Provinces had solemnly declared that the position of Stadhouder was secured in perpetuity for the descendants of Willem of Orange. However the city of Amsterdam together with the 'Staten van Holland', who were controlled by Amsterdam, were of opinion that the Stadhouder in the course of time had become too influential in matters of State and therefore that this position should not be in perpetuity. In these years big numbers of Dutch trading vessels were plying the oceans from Asia to the America's and Amsterdam had become the main trading post in Europe as well as the seat of power of the United Provinces. It was therefore not strange that in the days, when kings were the head of state, the ambassadors of foreign countries considered the foremost Dutch leader to be the ruling king.

This was contrarily to the way of thinking of many Dutch, who considered the Stadhouder simply a servant of the State. To make things worse, the young Willem II met zijn vrouw Maria Stuart door Gerard van Honthorst.

Willem II was married to a daughter of Charles I, King of England, who was later executed in 1649, January 30th - The main reason for this was that he wanted to be an absolute king, overruling existing parliament, also contrary to the Dutch republican way of thinking.

However the Provinces badly needed a peace agreement with the Spanish overlords and so Willem II was appointed Stadhouder in May 1647 of the less powerful provinces Gelderland, Utrecht and Overijssel. Reluctantly Holland (Amsterdam) accepted Willem II in December, followed by Zeeland a year later.

A summary of achievements detailed hereunder gives an idea of the developments in science, arts and technology since the early years from 1600 onwards in the Lower Countries.

Universities established in Leiden (1575), Franeker (1585), Groningen (1614), Utrecht (1636), Harderwijk (1647)

Inventions: Christiaan Huygens invented the pendulum, making clocks running more accurate.

Christiaan Huygens

Adriaan Metius, who invented the telescope and Cornelis Drebbel the microscope and the thermometer.

Sea maps drawn and produced by Pieter Plancius of Amsterdam.

Sawmills invented by Cornelis Dirksz. of Uitgeest. Towards the year 1700 there were 252 sawmills operating in the Zaan area.

Tulip growing on a big scale close behind the dunes on a special soil mixture of sand and clay called 'geestgrond' in Dutch.

Architecture and building technology. Jacob van Campen, under who's direction the magnificent Dam Palace was built in Amsterdam. Originally the Council of Amsterdam ordered a new 'Stadhuis' to be built as a replacement of the original one, which dated from the year 1400. As the City's citizens increased six-fold in the years 1550-1560, the existing 'stadhuis' was not adequate anymore for the needs, like wedding ceremonies, council business, court of justice proceedings, money exchange, and general meeting place for business people. The first stone was laid on the 28th October 1648 (when the 'Vrede van Munster' had been signed). As the ground was swampy, 13.659 poles were used to support the foundation, each of them being rammed onto the under-laying sand-plate by hand.

The Trade Exchange in Amsterdam, later officially called 'Stock Exchange' or 'Beurs'. The first stone laid in 1608, after the V.O.C. instigated the idea when it was put together in 1602 for the purpose of dealing in printed stocks and bonds.

Admirals : Piet Heyn, Michiel Adriaansz de Ruyter, Maarten Harpertsz Tromp to name the most prominent ones; but let us not forget Admiral Lumey who was commanding the rag-tag 'Water- Geuzen' fleet in 1572 taking De Briel, thereby starting the independence of the future Republic.

Poets and writers: Pieter Cornelisz Hooft, Kaspar van Baerle, Joost van den Vondel, Vossius, Jacob Cats (known as Vader Cats), Hugo de Groot (the one who escaped from castle Loevesteyn in a book case) and last but not least the famous 'Marnix- Heer van St Aldegonde, a close friend and adviser of Prince Willem van Oranje, who is thought to be the composer of the national anthem 'Wilhelmus'. Marnix was one of the early writers, using the Dutch language as spoken in Holland. He also helped the government with decoding Spanish messages and documents. The Staten Generaal requested him to translate the Bible for the common people. He died in 1598.

Painters: Jan Steen, Rembrandt van Rijn, Frans Hals, Paulus Potter, Gerard Dou, Adriaan van Ostade, Ferdinand Bol, Johannes Vermeer, Govert Flink, Jacob Ruysdael, Bartolomeus van der Helst etc.

It still amazes me that ever since the start of the 80 year conflict in 1568 between the emerging Seven United Provinces and Spain, such enormous progress could be achieved by a relative small population of about a million and a half people who after all were not very united in politics, the monetary system and language.

Ship building yards were located all over the provinces Holland and Zeeland, busy building hundreds of ships for war and trade. The 'Zaanstreek', 10 kilometers north of Amsterdam had by the year 1650 around 1000 windmills operating, sawing timber, grinding flour, making paint, paper and a host of other products. Rope and sail makers were flat out coping with the demand.

At the same time the harbours and cities were expanding rapidly, warehouses were constructed together with large and well designed and decorated homes for the successful merchants along the canal systems not only in Amsterdam but also in many other cities in Zeeland, Holland and Friesland. Magnificent palatial homes were erected along the river Vecht and in the outside areas around Haarlem, Leiden, The Hague, Utrecht, Hoorn and Enkhuizen. These building activities started other industries like furniture making, clock making, weaving, lace making and the famous Delft porcelain.

Dutch trading vessels sailed all over the planet and anchored in their own harbours of Cape of Good Hope (Capetown), Batavia (Djakarta) in the erstwhile Dutch East Indies, in Ceylon (Srilanka), Formosa (Taiwan), the West Indies, New Amsterdam (now New York), and a number of settlements along the coasts of Africa's mainland.

After Charles I of England lost his head on the scaffold, the republican Olivier Cromwell succeeded as Head of State in 1649. These events developed over the years into a twenty year conflict between the powerful Dutch and the emerging English nation, the battle for supremacy on the oceans and thereby access to profitable exploitation of colonies.

The first move was made by Cromwell, who with a friendly parliament behind him, ruled that only goods produced in the country of manufacture or grown in that country, could be sold and offloaded in English harbours only by the ships of that country. The Dutch traders were at that time the world's most important freight carriers and so were badly curtailed in their transport business.

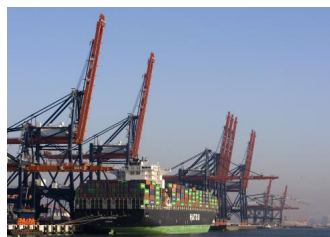

Cromwell's rule started a shipbuilding industry, which overtook the Dutch production in about twenty years simply because of England's bigger population and economy.

The war between the Dutch and the English was mainly fought at sea, resulting in some famous engagements, like the one near Ter Heide on the 10th of August 1653, whereby Admiral Tromp lost his life. Thereafter it was Admiral Michiel de Ruyter, who sailed up the river Thames in 1667 and captured the English fleet's flagship Royal Charles and sailed it home. Finally peace was made in 1674 at Breda between the two adversaries.

But before that economics and politics brought the Provinces in continual conflict with England as well as France and at one stage the French armies entered Holland with 200.000 soldiers. But the Dutch retaliated and captured 2400 English and more than 400 French trading vessels in the years 1672 – 1673. This was too much for the English and peace was made in 1674. Then the Dutch caused the French such disastrous losses with their small and scattered army groups under the leadership of Prince Willem III, that they in turn made peace in 1678 at Nijmegen.

The writing was on the wall however for the hardy and enterprising Dutch. The exhausting English sea battles, together with the effort to keep the long lines of communications open with their overseas settlements and that in a hostile environment worldwide, was too heavy a burden and caused a gradual decline in the prosperity of a proud nation.

This decline was only temporarily as we well know. At present our hardy nation is once more respected worldwide, because of their top range technology and electronics industry as well as their worldwide insurance and brokerage services and banking, not to forget their impressive Rotterdam harbour facilities.

Dutch powerful ocean-going tugboats are in great demand world wide because of their reliability and seamanship.

The coat of arms of the Dutch nation still sends its message: Je Maintiendrai. (Dutch: Ik zal Handhaven. English: I will Maintain).

Gerard Woerlee.

CODEBREAKER PUZZLE

How to play the Game:

A Codebreaker is a crossword puzzle with no clues! Every letter of the alphabet has been replaced by a number, the same number represents the same letter all the time in this puzzle.

All you have to do is find out which letter is represented by which number!

The codes for 3 letters are given. When you have entered these letters throughout the puzzle, you should have enough information to start guessing your first word and also discover other letters. If you are unsure, use a pencil, then you can always erase.

The last Codebreaker was not too difficult once you found the words Lethal and Heatwave.

Following is the entire solution:

A=22; B=17; C=29; D=11; E=7; F=1; G=4; H=3; I=6; J=12; K=2; L=20; M=19; N=26; O=8; P=24; Q=13; R=5; S=16; T=14; U=25; V=10; W=21; X=15; Y=23; Z=18.
